

Lesson 14: Armageddon

You started with the key and the prospect of the inner beings to help you. Then I talked of Gaia, placing you in the context of you as part of the animal kingdom and all its glory. Then we looked at various ideas that strengthen your view of self, reverence, perception, fortitude and trust. Now here we begin to place you in the context of how a global karma is working itself out around you.

Armageddon from the Book of Revelation was written up as the final battle between the forces of light and dark. Some see it as the current Jewish-American alliance against the Muslims but it can't be that, as there is no one to decide which army represents the light and which is dark, they both are violent and racially elite, and jolly nasty by descent standards, and anyway, there are not enough people involved in the conflict for it to be a proper Armageddon.

In the mirror-world there has been a long fight between the spiritual forces of Gaia and the demonic ghouls, and that to me is the real Armageddon, in the sense that it is global and individual at the same time. It's a fight for the global-soul but it is also a fight for your soul. Will you step from the domination of the shadow and re-enter the light nor not?

But the quirky part to consider is what happens to the world once the ghouls are wrapped up and the controllers don't have their inbuilt allies and their protection? For Armageddon is essentially the fight of Gaia against the Fat Controllers that would crush the human spirit and turn the nature-spirit of this world into an irrelevant bystander/victim. That is why I sent you the lesson on the obesity of the soul, as I wanted you to see how important it is for you to be on Gaia's side, as the idea that the controllers can hold out much longer is not likely, humans will not be allowed to mistreat nature any longer as the slaughter is at astronomical proportions.

So we see the control for the world externalize as the violent, corrupt, global fascist state, and we see it inside ourselves as the virulent control the ego has over our daily life. We are often driven by crude impulses from within (an insidious nastiness) that is not spiritual in nature or aligned with the pristine beauty of Gaia. So the journey into the shadow is vital. Some of the past members on the bulletin board asked about how to resolve the shadow and the answer is you can only do it bit-by-bit as it only comes to your awareness bit-by-bit. It is an onion that peels away layer-by-layer

To look at it and resolve it is to own it. Once you own it you are safer as you can look Gaia in the eye and say, "I may have come through great fear and some evil but I saw it for what it was I have now gone past it". Where it goes wrong for you is when you project your inner disquiet on others as vengeance and retribution, or you are hoping for them to heal you or make good on whatever disquiet you feel. Just as governments attack other countries to make themselves feel better. The blame-game is the reason for all the pain and the wars.

The secondary part of this is that each one of us has been pre-owned by the ghouls at some point, we are second-hand humans that drifted into arrogance or sleaze, denial, dishonesty or vindictiveness and/or silent hatred of some kind. So as we try to flee to goodness and safety the ghouls attempt to stop us, leading us astray and offering misinformation. You might have belonged to them for as few decades, so you can see how they might take umbrage when you decide to leave. They are inane, need for control comes from a myopic desire for self; it is a manic form of self-importance, the unwarranted pride of a false evaluation of self, like the cult of the Chosen One.

George Bush said in a speech "I am the decider". That is the ghouls talking. He also said that God told him to attack Iraq, that is another ghoul-feed, as there is no bellicose God instructing armies to go to war; such instructions come for the ghoul's impulse for mayhem and blood and the need to generate fear as a form of etheric food.

God is vibrating energy in all things, it is a grace not a person, and even the sacred beings we see in the Morph that are part of Gaia are not God. They are often nature spirits evolving and learning as we do, they are not allowed to be deciders, they are not infallible. Their function with us humans is to push energy and information and each individual decides what he or she will do with it.

When the Fat Controllers take the world to ruin that will be a mirror image for us to look and learn for it will be in the form of externalization of our inner Armageddon, made manifest as the collapse of the global-ego. We all have to experience that external collapse in some way or another, as that is our karma. We are not innocent all of us have hated people and mistreated Gaia, so working out how you might escape the consequences of a crisis is secondary to learning what you did in this life; the attitudes you developed and held, and understanding the consequences of how all that came about. There is a softness and beauty in those perceptions, an in-built forgiveness.

To embrace the feminine spirit is to begin to make it right again, then whatever ideas come to you in visions say, will make sense once you are more clear, but it is quite important that you hold steady in any crisis that might develop and that you don't lurch, because the crisis will be designed to take the global-ego the wrong way and people will be lurching left and right, big time, head-banging. They will sell when they should buy and they will buy when the market is about to collapse and they will become confused. Experts on TV, operating from a previously understood logic, will lead them up the garden path to the outhouse.

How you fix it all is inside yourself, fix that first and then you will have completed your Armageddon and you will be out of the karma of it all and you will know what to do. Gaia - she's coming, and she has very few supporters here on earth, so if you show even a little bit of gleam in her direction you'll stand out. We are inside a prayer, one that calls us to take the side of justice and in that we also understand we are fairly powerless to fix injustice. We wait. For the injustice we see is the karma of the world, it is an external manifestation of the injustice we held to in our soul in the past. So it is an old memory but it is still with us. And we offer ourselves forgiveness to assuage that old memory, as discussed before.

This world is the ghoul's world and it is run and controlled by the ghoul-humans (gangster in suits mostly), when they fall it will be extraordinary, we'll feel a rumble like no other, as if a hundred foot high tree falls next to an ant. The ant bounces ten feet. Boing!

I'll do an audio (Your Money Opportunities) next about real estate and gold and currencies and so forth but that is not the main focus right now, for if calamity falls upon the controllers and things get tough there will be a great gnashing of teeth, but you'll have options and you'll be able to offer people hope.

Many people that have no soul or they have almost lost all the soul they were born with will suddenly jump into your arms, and they may turn back from the gates of hell if you know how to tickle them like a trout and flip them from their self-imposed misery and tears to the safety of a new way. They all have to be given one last chance and when a person has already lost their soul only a jolly descent fright will bring them back. So everything has its place. You'll find your way, you learn the ideas from reading the RC bulletin board and the lessons, and it may become very easy if a crisis sets in, very simple, walking forward silently amid the waste.

Fear is food to the ghouls and food to the ghoul-dominated humans, who sell fear via the media say, because the impulses from within them are so ghoul-driven. But you are on your way out of this Matrix of global control, for once you see the Morph and you realize all the dogma was sold to you backwards and you process yourself a bit, then very little scares you; you can watch a reptile in the Aluna inches off the end of your nose and laugh at it, because you essentially know it is you.

I once went through fifteen different hells and a hundred variations of the fifteen hells, it took me about sixty-four hours, every minute was like an hour down there in Boggo-land. It was very difficult and very ugly for even though I knew it was just a teaching, it was also the process of reminding me of nasty attitudes I held in the past, some of which may still remain today, like a strong fart lingering in a hallway on a still, sultry night.

You have the power and the Morph showed me, and I'm showing you, it's a pre-emptive strike on fear to embrace the shadow and not to be scared. And it is unique to look into these transdimensional worlds and realize you are part of something so loving, beautiful and vast.

Yes, you may still have mortality fears but they won't last forever, as you'll get over them once you die, tee-hee. If you are scared of death laugh at it. All the other fears can go now for if you don't have the dark inside you hiding and causing trouble and you won't pull any darkness to you.

Do this: affirm beauty many times each day, and also do one or two Gaia worship things each day, little prayers maybe. Clean up financial messes, and begin to divest yourself of clutter, sell the SUV; it's a goner -worthless; get rid of things, travel light, and become ever more clear and simple in your mind and in the way you lead your life and in how you treat others. Make the simplicity of who you are a pristine thing that you offer as a gift to the living spirit, the grace that is in all things. Walk slowly, drink lots of water and stay calm.

We are all in the Armageddon and that is the quirky twist to it, for once you realize how it is an 'inner thing' you can win the battle of it to transcend. You may have already done so. If a crisis comes laugh, if there is little or no oil we'll pedal along, or walk as millions of Africans have done for thousands of years. We have community, and we have each other. And we are developing perception nothing much else is needed in my view.
